A NEW GOD IN THE DIASPORA? MUNEESWARAN WORSHIP IN CONTEMPORARY SINGAPORE VINEETA SINHA

Examines the worship of a Hindu deity known as Muneeswaran in contemporary Singapore and questions why this deity, brought from Tamilnadu to Malaya more than 170 years ago, has such a strong appeal for young Singaporean Hindus. The strong presence and veneration of this male deity on the island, and the innovative styles of religiosity now associated with him, justify calling Muneeswaran a 'new' god in the Indian diaspora.

NEW RIGHTS/NEW ZEALAND: MYTHS, MORALITIES AND MARKETS 1984-1999

PAUL MORRIS, DOLORES JANIEWSKI

An important study of the growth of the New Right from 1984 to 1999. Its value arises from the way it focuses on the global context of the economic and moral programmes for change that pervaded New Zealand the 1980s and 1990s. The book pays attention to the moral aspects of the New Right programmes, showing how countries like Australia, the US and UK differed in this respect from New Zealand. It also gives an analysis of the New Right in terms of its advocacy of political and civil rights over economic and cultural rights.

EDWARD EYRE, RACE AND COLONIAL GOVERNANCE

J EVANS

Edward Eyre, a mid nineteenth-century explorer, colonial administrator and later colonial governor, is remembered in Australia as the enlightened defender of Aboriginal rights. In New Zealand, it is simply recalled that he did not get on with Governor Grey. In England and the Caribbean, he is the reviled 'butcher of Jamaica'. This book explores Eyre's actions through his perceptions of the colonial encounter with local populations.

WRITING AT THE EDGE OF THE UNIVERSE: ESSAYS FROM THE CREATIVE WRITING IN NEW ZEALAND CONFERENCE M WILLIAMS

Looks at New Zealand literature at a time when it is thriving as never before and celebrates the maturity that places writing at the centre rather than the outskirts of national life. But it also examines and questions the contentious issues about the state of New Zealand writing: the power of the creative writing programme, the globalising influence of the publishing industry and international styles, the directions of Maori writing, the place of nationalism in creative activity and the importance of funding.

THE POLITICS OF INDIGENEITY: CHALLENGING THE STATE IN CANADA AND AOTEAROA NEW ZEALAND ROGER MAAKA, AUGIE FLERAS

The period 1995 to 2004 was the UN's International Decade of World Indigenous Peoples. This reflected the increasing organisation of indigenous peoples around a commonality of concerns, needs and ambitions. In both New Zealand and Canada, these politics challenge the colonial structures that social and political systems are built upon. This book casts light on the constitutional politics in both countries that are redefining the relationship of indigenous peoples to the state.
