

Contents

Preface

1. Cultural Studies and the Concept of Power
2. With Respect to Foucault – Towards a Critique of the Thematics of Power
3. Power and the State – The ‘Peculiarities of the English’ Revisited
4. Cultural Studies ‘Before Power’ – The First Generation
5. ‘A Whole Way of Conflict’ – The Turn to Power
6. The Sociological Encounter – ‘Power’ at Birmingham
7. A Continuing Tension – The Unresolved Politics of Cultural Studies
8. ‘An Impossible Politics to Live’ – Gender, Race and the Calculus of Oppression
9. The Trans-Atlantic Passage – ‘Power’ in America
10. The Shoals of Banality – Living with the Concept of Power
11. Beyond Power? The ‘New Pluralism’ and the Turn to Ethics
12. Orientalism and Occidentalism – ‘Power’ in International Cultural Studies
13. Conclusion – Reconfiguring Cultural

Studies

References

Index