THE GREEN ISLE OF THE GREAT DEEP

NEIL GUNN

- One of the major writers of the renaissance of Scottish literature in the twentieth century

Two unlikely friends, representing the extremes of age and youth, are out on an undercover poaching trip when they become swept up in the currents of a salmon pool. When they awaken they have been transported from the Highlands of our world to an alternative Highland universe. Told fully in Highland dialect, The Green Isle of the Great Deep is both a wonderful Scottish parable and a warning of the dangers of power and its abuse.

ARTHUR OF THE ENGLISH: THE ARTHURIAN LEGEND IN ENGLISH LIFE & LITERATURE

W R J BARRON

- Reprinted in 2006
- Available for the first time in paperback.

English people think of Arthur as their own, yet some would say, the English were the historical Arthur's bitterest enemies and usurpers of his heritage. The process by which Arthurian legends have become an important part of England's cultural heritage is traced in this book. Previous studies have concentrated on the handful of chivalric romances, which have given the impression that Arthur is a hero of romantic escapism. This study seeks to provide a more comprehensive and insightful look at the English Arthurian legends and how they evolved.

A SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY THROUGH FRANCE AND ITALY AND CONTINUATION OF THE BRAMINE'S JOURNAL

LAURENCE STERNE, MELVYN NEW (ed.), W.G. DAY (ed.)

This edition makes available for the first time in an affordable edition the most valuable features of the acclaimed Florida edition of the two works of Sterne's last year of life, A Sentimental Journey and Continuation of the Bramine's Journal, including a generous selection of its notes. The inclusion of both works in this volume will not only enhance the reputation of the Bramine's Journal, but shed new light upon its better known companion. Several additional documents provide ample context for understanding these works in relation to Sterne's life and other writings.

FIGURING THE PACIFIC: AOTEAROA AND PACIFIC CULTURAL STUDIES

HOWARD MCNAUGHTON (ed.), JOHN NEWTON (ed.)

A collection of essays on how to figure the Pacific. This book offers numerous fascinating and complex figurations: Mike Linzey on the architectural sign-structure of Te Papa, Adrian Bennett on the marginalisation of some more negative first encounter narratives, Frances Kelly on the convict body and 'savage' physiognomy, Allen Meek on the virtual giant body – the King Kong – of the colonised other, Daniel Bedgood on 'fatal impact' pathologies of Pacific bodies as seen by Oliver Sacks, Lisa Perrott on the slippery multiplicities of cultural memory as applied to the New Zealand Wars, and Howard McNaughton on the regressive human zoo staged in 1906 for the Christchurch International Exhibition.

THE BOOKMEN'S COLONY

CHRIS HILLIARD

- Author teaches at the University of Sydney
- Hilliard is a brilliant young historian whose reputation will draw historians, literary critics, writers, etc
- Beautifully written; well illustrated with lovely 1920s and 1930s portrait photographs
- Follows the sell-out Going Up Going Down and Love in Time of War in the AUP Studies in Social and Cultural History Series
- Book includes Australia–New Zealand literary connections of the period and investigates why much NZ publishing of the time was undertaken in Australia

As early as the 1920s, people with backgrounds in journalism, librarianship or the professions such as the law were debating the details and the wider significance of the Treaty and the NZ Wars, and arguing about modernism and nationhood in New Zealand poetry. From the 1930s, these 'bookmen', as they sometimes called themselves, found themselves under attack. Chris Hilliard examines the ways changes in ideas and tastes were related to changes in the country's cultural power bases.

SIX MYTHS ABOUT THE GOOD LIFE: THINKING ABOUT WHAT HAS VALUE

JOEL J. KUPPERMAN

Focuses on the values that are worth aiming for in our lives, a topic central to what has been called Philosophy of Life. We all have ideas about good lives. We think that pleasure makes life better. We all want to be happy. We think that achievements make a difference. There is something to all these ideas, but if taken simply and generally they all miss out on something. Six Myths explores what they miss, and in the process gives a sense of what good lives can be.

INTENTIONAL SOCIAL CHANGE: A RATIONAL CHOICE THEORY YOSHIMICHI SATO

Why do some efforts to implement social change succeed while others fail? Sato observes that existing theories focus on social action at either the micro or the macro level, and are therefore unable to explain the transitions between these levels. In this book, Sato argues that efforts to effect social change at the macro level stimulate responses at the micro level.

KIN: A COLLECTIVE BIOGRAPHY OF A NEW ZEALAND WORKING-CLASS FAMILY MELANIE NOLAN

'Five life stories of individuals not connected to each other constitute five separated pieces, perhaps five gems but with no cumulative power unless they are taken from the same social world. But the life stories of five persons connected by close kinship ties . . . bring more information than five separated stories: they illuminate and reflect upon each other like the gems of a necklace.' – Daniel Bertaux and Catherine Delcroix

Biography is the single largest genre of history written, published and read. Yet what can a study of the one tell us about the many? Melanie Nolan focuses on this issue of variance within the New Zealand working class by examining the life, culture and identity of Jack McCullough, Workers' Representative on the Arbitration Court 1908–1921, and his four siblings – Margaret, Jim, Sarah and Frank.

A SOCIAL HISTORY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY IN CONTEMPORARY JAPAN: VOLUME 3

SHIGERU NAKAYAMA (ed.), SATOSHI YOSHIOKA (ed.)

- The study won the prestigious Mainichi Publications Award in 1995.

This is the third volume of a comprehensive, four-volume survey that documents the miraculous growth of Japanese science and technology from post-war devastation to its rise as a global leader. A team of more than fifty Japanese experts labored for ten years to assemble unique materials into this monumental work of careful scholarship. This volume deals with the period of high economic growth from 1960 to 1969. The first two volumes have already been published.

CONSERVATION ACROSS BORDERS - BIODIVERSITY IN AN INDEPENDENT WORLD

CHARLES C. CHESTER

Conservationists have long been aware that political boundaries rarely coincide with natural boundaries. From the establishment of early "peace parks" to the designation of continental migratory pathways, a wide range of transborder mechanisms to protect biodiversity have been established by conservationists in both the public and private sectors. This is a broad overview of the history of transboundary conservation efforts and an accessible introduction to current issues surrounding the subject.
