THIS THING IN THE MIRROR: SELF PORTRAITS BY NEW ZEALAND ARTISTS CLAIRE FINLAYSON

Art history in New Zealand has been dominated by landscape paintings, but there is a complementary field of portrait painting which has not received the same attention. This book redresses the balance a little by presenting a selection of self portraits by well-known New Zealand artists. Like the best of companions these self-portraits amuse, confound and engage you, and add some warm human lore to the art history shelves.

ANGELINA: FROM STROMBOLI TO D'URVILLE ISLAND - A FAMILY'S STORY
G. HINDMARSH

In 1906, at just 16 years of age, Angelina Moleta left the tiny volcanic island of Stromboli off Sicily to travel to an even remoter island on the other side of the world. From the age of eight she had been betrothed to her cousin, Vincenzo Moleta, who was now twice her age and taking her to a new life on D'Urville Island in New Zealand. Angelina found solace in an unlikely friendship with a high-born Maori woman, Wetekia Ruruku Elkington, who lived nearby. Together they shared their own struggles, their different cultures and lack of English language; a process that awakened Angelina to her own inner strengths.

IMPROBABLE EDEN: THE DRY VALLEYS OF ANTARCTICA
BILL GREEN

The Dry Valleys of Antarctica are one of the last truly remote places left on earth. With no cover of ice or snow, and no rainfall, these dry valleys are 'islands' in the midst of the frozen ice of the Antarctic continent, a wonderfully strange environment of ice-covered lakes that hold some of the planet's purest water, huge expanses of windsculpted rock, barren eroded land forms, and glaciers that intrude into the edges of the valleys. Access to this unique environment is extremely restricted, and has allowed only a limited number of scientists and tourists to visit this area. Improbable Eden is therefore, a unique book - a significant and beautiful addition to Antarctic literature.

JOHN BRITTEN
TIM HANNA

Since his tragically early death from cancer in 1995, John Britten has deservedly taken his place as an original New Zealand hero. He was the man who, with a small dedicated team in Christchurch, designed and built from scratch the extraordinary Britten V-twin motorcycle. His bike enthralled legions of fans worldwide, who were captured by the elegance, originality and power of the machine, but also by the romance of his story – an individual taking on the power and might of some of the world's biggest and best motorcycle manufacturers, and winning. This is a book with appeal far beyond the motorcycling fraternity, for it has a universally inspiring theme – that extraordinary things are possible when a person can turn their dreams into reality.
