VERA RÖHM STEPHEN BANN

- The first comprehensive presentation of German sculptor and installation artist Vera Röhm's work in the English language
- Highly illustrated

Vera Röhm's name comes up in discussions of contemporary constructive art as an unorthodox example of the sculptural approach. Since the very beginning of her artistic career she has been concerned with a repertoire of elementary geometrical shapes. Her approach plays upon different kinds of distortion: incisions, cross-sections, mutilation and restoration/reconstruction; which bring about an increased richness of form and complexity, and challenge the viewer's imagination.

PAINTING ETHIOPIA: THE LIFE AND WORK OF QES ADAMU TESFAW RAYMOND SILVERMAN

Schooled in the fifteen-hundred-year-old painting tradition of the Ethiopian Orthodox Church and ever sensitive to its narrative and iconographic requirements, Ethiopian artist Qes Adamu Tesfaw has managed to transcend the formulas that tradition requires him to embrace. By giving up the priesthood and turning to painting full-time, the artist has also found the freedom to venture outside the realm of religious subject matter to produce work that chronicles historical events both inside and outside Ethiopia, as well as scenes that depict the everyday life of his native country.

Brings together thirteen contemporary artists who share a passion for process. Informed by Process Art of the 1970s, and attached to the grid that has organized much of the art of the last fifty years, their two- and three-dimensional contemporary works negotiate a path between organic and geometric form, between the pixilated and the painterly.

ROB ROY

WALTER SCOTT, DAVID HEWITT (ed.)

Although Rob Roy is set in 1715-16, it does not concern the Jacobite Rising but rather the economic and social conditions which gave rise to it. It celebrates the freebooting capitalism of the hero's father in the City of London, and the actual freebooting of Rob Roy, 'the Robin Hood of Scotland, the dread of the wealthy, but the friend of the poor'.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO LITERARY ANNUALS

JAMES HOGG, JANETTE CURRIE (ed.)

The Annuals of the 1820s and 1830s, were designed as Christmas and New Year's presents. These attractive pocket-sized compilations of poetry, prose and engravings for drawingroom display recruited well-known authors such as James Hogg, Walter Scott, L.E.L., and John Clare, their work appearing alongside that of young hopefuls such as Alfred Tennyson. In drawing together Hogg's work for the Annuals and in providing the appropriate context the editors shed new light on Hogg's working practices and his relations with editors and artists

THE QUEEN'S WAKE: A LEGENDARY TALE

JAMES HOGG, DOUGLAS S. MACK (ed.)

- At time of publication the poem's success placed Hogg alongside Burns and Scott as one of the leading writers of the period
- Presents both the first and fifth editions of the poem to allow the reader to compare the two

One of the landmarks of British Romantic poetry. It focuses on the return of Mary, Queen of Scots to Scotland in 1561 to take personal rule of her kingdom after her years in France. In the poem, poets and bards hold a poetic competition (a 'wake') in Holyrood Palace to welcome the Queen.

HURT THYSELF

ANDREW STEINMETZ

- Award-winning poet
- A dazzling second collection of poetry on love, marriage, power, and art

Andrew Steinmetz's second collection of poetry turns a clinical eye on his favourite subjects - love, marriage, power, fantasy, and art. At the crossroads of the credos "know thyself" and "heal thyself," Steinmetz adopts a "hurt thyself" attitude that is sardonic and compassionate. Using a tersely sensitive language that relies on the poet's own speaking voice, Hurt Thyself betrays a slightly ominous and skewed philosophical rigor. The implications of the poet's examined life are poems that feel emotionally exposed yet discriminating and sceptical.

DREAM I TELL YOU

HELENE CIXOUS, Translated by BEVERLEY BIE BRAHIC

- Hélène Cixous is a highly influential figure in contemporary literary and French feminist theory with an international following

An account of, and commentary on, a collection of dreams by this much admired French novelist, playwright and theorist. The dream is both a rich poetic tapestry and a key document in understanding Cixous' writing practice. The 'You' of the title is Jacques Derrida to whom it is recounted. The book then embarks on a deconstruction of psychoanalysis, the field of fiction and literary production, subjectivity, sexual difference, and the question of friendship

ALTRIVE TALES: FEATURING A MEMOIR OF THE AUTHOR'S LIFE

JAMES HOGG, GILLIAN HUGHES (ed.)

- Now in Paperback with new introduction for paperback edition
- Extensively annotated
- Features a reading list and Hogg chronology.

'I like to write about myself: in fact, there are few things I like better...' So confesses Hogg with pawky self-mocking humour in the opening memoir of Altrive Tales. This entertaining collection begins with Hogg's own story of how a ragged servantlad remade himself as a respected professional writer, the associate of Byron, Scott, Southey, Wordsworth and Galt.

TAO YUANMING AND MANUSCRIPT CULTURE
XIAOFEI TIAN

As medieval Chinese manuscripts were copied and recopied through the centuries, both mistakes and deliberate editorial changes were introduced, thereby affecting readers' impressions of the author's intent. Xiaofei Tian shows how readers not only experience authors but produce them by shaping texts to their interpretation. Tian examines the mechanics and history of textual transmission in China by focusing on the evolution over the centuries of the reclusive poet Tao Yuanming into a figure of epic stature.

BLACKS IN THE DIASPORA

THE SLAVE'S REBELLION
ADELEKE ADEEKO

Episodes of slave rebellions such as Nat Turner's are central to speculations on the trajectory of black history and the goal of black spiritual struggles. Using fiction, history, and oral poetry drawn from the United States, the Caribbean, and Africa, this book analyzes how writers reinterpret episodes of historical slave rebellion to conceptualize their understanding of an ideal 'master-less' future.

HISTORICAL FRICTIONS: MAORI CLAIMS AND REINVENTED HISTORIES

MICHAEL BELGRAVE

Explores the role of the courts and of various types of commissions in mediating and reinventing historical narratives of colonisation. By using the New Zealand experience as a case study and setting it within the international context, the author shows how the colonial courts became from 1840 places where different narratives of discovery and conquest, of loss and displacement and of claims to resources and to mana were debated. These legal debates were not only between the indigenous Maori and Europeans (Pakeha); Maori also used the courts to maintain or reclaim traditional rights as between Maori and Maori.

FRONTIER PEOPLE: HAN SETTLERS IN MINORITY AREAS OF CHINA METTE HALSKOV HANSEN

Chinese migration to Tibetan and other border areas - now within the People's Republic of China - has long been a politically sensitive issue. As part of an ongoing process of internal colonisation, migrations to minority areas on the whole have been directly organised by the government, or driven by economic motives. This book is the first to study and analyse the results of these migrations from the perspective of Chinese immigrants, themselves directly involved in the process of transformation within these areas where they have settled.

OLD-TIME MUSIC AND DANCE JOHN BEALLE

Tells the lively history of the Bloomington Old-Time Music and Dance Group—how it was formed, how it evolved its unique culture, and how it grew to shape and influence new waves of traditional music and dance. Broader questions about the folk revival movement, social resistance, counter culture, authenticity, and identity intersect this delightful history.

INTEGRATING ISLAM: POLITICAL AND RELIGIOUS CHALLENGES IN CONTEMPORARY FRANCE JUSTIN VAISSE

Nearly five million Muslims call France home, the vast majority from former French colonies in North Africa. While France has successfully integrated waves of immigrants in the past, this new influx poses a new variety of challenges. Alarmists view the growing role of Muslims in French society as a form of 'reverse colonization'. Integrating Islam portrays the more complex reality of integration's successes and failures in French politics and society.

MCGILL-QUEEN'S NATIVE AND NORTHERN

COLD COMFORT GRAHAM W. ROWLEY

In 1936 Graham Rowley went to the still unexplored west coast of Baffin Island as the archaeologist for a small British expedition - the last in the Canadian North to depend on traditional techniques. Cold Comfort, his acclaimed memoir of this period, captures the way of life in the North before World War II, including the experience of travelling by dogsled over unexplored land.

SARAJEVO: A BIOGRAPHY ROBERT J. DONIA

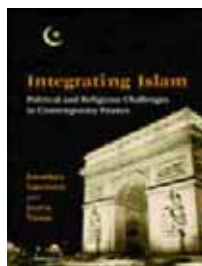

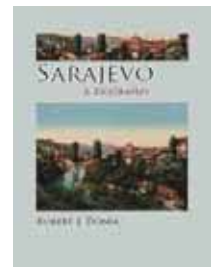

Indelibly marked as the site of the assassination of Habsburg Archduke Franz Ferdinand in 1914, Sarajevo hosted the Winter Olympics in 1984, but by 1992 was a city at war, its residents subjected to what became the longest urban siege of the post-1945 era. Sarajevans showed extraordinary courage under fire as they struggled to preserve a treasured way of life. The author examines the city's history from its founding in the fifteenth century to the present.

BORDER LANDSCAPES JANET C. STURGEON

Examines the different trajectories of landscape change and land use among communities who call themselves Akha (known as Hani in China) in contrasting political contexts. The author shows how, over the last century, processes of state formation, construction of ethnic identity, and regional security concerns have contributed to very different outcomes for Akha and their forests in China and Thailand, with Chinese Akha functioning as citizens and grain producers, and Akha in Thailand being viewed as "non-Thai" forest destroyers.

SECURITY AND DEFENCE IN THE TERRORIST ERA ELINOR C. SLOAN

- A timely analysis

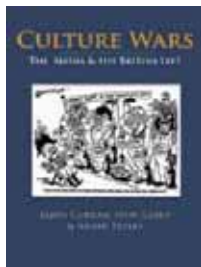

Canada's traditional approach to security has been "the best defence is a good offence." Elinor Sloan challenges this notion, arguing that in the post 9/11 era "defensive" military and civilian measures at home are just as important to Canada as "offensive" military activities abroad.

CAN WE SAY NO?: THE CHALLENGES OF RATIONING HEALTH CARE

HENRY J. AARON, WILLIAM B. SCHWARTZ, MELISSA COX

Over the past four decades, the share of income devoted to health care nearly tripled. If policy is unchanged, this trend is likely to continue. Should Americans decide to rein in the growth of health care spending, they will be forced to consider whether to ration care for the well-insured, a prospect that is odious and unthinkable to many. This book argues that sensible health care rationing can not only save money but improve general welfare and public health.

NEW ZEALAND AND THE VIETNAM WAR: POLITICS AND DIPLOMACY

ROBERTO RABEL

- Publishing for 40th anniversary of combat troops leaving to support the US in Vietnam
- Author is well-known in military history circles

The despatch of troops to assist the U.S.A. in Vietnam divided the country, enraged a generation and forced the government to publicly defend its foreign policy. This detailed study starts with the first Indochina War in the 1950s and covers the story of New Zealand's relations with Vietnam up to the end of the Vietnam War in the 1970s. It explores the diplomatic history of the engagement, which is not well known or understood, and shows that officials and politicians in fact entered the war with extreme reluctance.

VITAL SIGNS: PERSPECTIVES ON THE HEALTH OF AMERICAN CAMPAIGNING JAMES A. THURBER

It was the best of elections; it was the worst of elections. The 2004 presidential contest mobilized a record number of voters, with 121 million Americans showing up at the polls. But in many eyes, the 2004 race also plumbed new depths. It was the most expensive presidential election in history, with a price tag of $2.2 billion. It was also marked by unprecedented negativity.

THE ILLUSION OF CULTURAL IDENTITY
JEAN-FRANCOIS BAYART

There are so many uncertainties — or false certainties — which we meet and which assume the permanence of culture. It is the very idea of culture that prevents us from grasping the cultural dimension of political action and economic development. For state formation brings into play aesthetic and moral concepts — just as it involves sexual practices, culinary traditions, clothes and hair-styles.

SCOTTISH FICTION AND THE BRITISH EMPIRE
DOUGLAS S. MACK

Some Scottish writers did much to generate and promote Imperial Britain's sense of itself, and these authors tended to be part of the Scottish elite. However, an alternative strand of Scottish writing was produced by authors with roots in nonelite. Douglas Mack argues that such writers actively challenge the Imperial Grand Narrative and demonstrates that Scottish fiction was active and influential both in shaping and in subverting the assumptions that underpinned the Empire.

FROM POWER SHARING TO DEMOCRACY

SID NOEL

Post-conflict societies invariably experience great difficulty in making their new democratic power-sharing institutions work. In Northern Ireland, the system for power sharing prescribed in the 1998 Good Friday Agreement has repeatedly broken down. In Bosnia-Herzegovina, the system prescribed under the Dayton Accord of 1995 depends for its survival on the presence of a substantial international peacekeeping force. This book examines the theoretical underpinnings of power sharing as a means of achieving sustainable democratic governance.

As a central figure in the American wilderness preservation movement in the mid-twentieth century, Howard Zahniser (1906-1964) was the person most responsible for the landmark Wilderness Act of 1964. While the rugged outdoorsmen of the early environmental movement, such as John Muir and Bob Marshall, gave the cause a charismatic face, Zahniser strove to bring conservation's concerns into the public eye and the preservationists' plans to fruition.
